DOES THE SHAPE OF A COW SHOW HOW MUCH MILK SHE GIVES?

"Several years ago an agricultural teacher in Germany began investigation for the purpose of testing the truth of the claims of dairy breeders that they can judge a cow by her build and conformation," writes a contributor in the current issue of Farm and Fireside.

This is what he did and what he learned: "He divided the cows used in the examination into five classes, using only cows yielding from 4,400 to 8,000 pounds of milk per year.

"He made up his mind and published his findings, to the effect that there is no relationship between milk yield and type. The only indications which seem to have any real meaning are those relating to the milk veins, the udder, the teats, and the milk organs generally. A cow having these organs properly developed seemed quite as likely to be a good milker, if she was beefy, as if she were of the 'true dairy type'."

Dr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGaughey delightfully entertained twenty guests at 6 o'clock dinner on Saturday evening. This was the first of a series of dinners to be given by Dr. and Mrs. McGaughey, invitations having been issued for the second dinner, which is to be on Wednesday evening.

RUSSELL FARMER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Following an illness of several weeks of typhoid fever, death Sunday morning at 4 o'clock, claimed Russell Farmer, age 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farmer, who reside on their farm, about 3 miles southeast of Greencastle. The condition of the young man had been critical for many days previous to his death, and during those days there was only the slightest chance that he might be able to recover.

The funeral will be in the Christian church in Greencastle, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Hootman. Burial will be in the Forest Hill cemetery. The pallbearers will be Thad Jones, James Walker, Talbot Christie, Frank Cannon, Jr., Wallace Welsh and Maurice Sharp.

The death of Russell Farmer takes from the community one of its brightest and most esteemed young men. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farmer. The young man attended the Greencastle high school from which he was graduated in 1912. He was a member of the Elks lodge of this city and was a member of the Christian church.

FILTER BED FOR SEWER SYSTEM

INDIANA STATE BOARD OF HEALTH WATER CHEMIST HERE TODAY TO CONSULT WITH THE CITY OFFICIALS REGARDING A REMEDY FOR EXISTING CONDITIONS.

WOULD COST NEAR $5000

In order to care for the overflow from the Greencastle sewer system, a sand filter bed should be built near Walnut Creek, according to John C. Diggs, water chemist of the Indiana State Board of Health, who was here this morning to consult with the Greencastle officials, regarding the conditions at the septic tank, which have been much discussed recently.

The overflow from the tank could be carried through tiling to land adjoining the creek, where a filter bed should be built. Mr. Diggs, together with Mayor Cooper, City Engineer Lane, Councilman Frank Allen and Dr. Jerome King, secretary of the County Board of Health, drove to the septic tank this morning.

In the opinion of the state water chemist, the overflow coming from the tanks and the odor from this water are not at all dangerous to health. The conditions are objectionable, however, and can easily be remedied.

Plans for piping the overflow to the creek and the building of a filter bed will be started immediately, now that the state officer has given an opinion. Some land owned by Alec Lockridge or Andrew Black, probably the former, will have to be secured. The filter bed will be built on this land. After the overflow is put into this bed there absolutely will be no danger or odor, nor will there be any danger of polluting the Walnut creek waters to the least degree, according to Mr. Diggs.

Approximately a half mile of 18-inch tile will have to be laid and the filter bed built. This work, together with the price which will have to be paid for the land on which the bed will be built, probably will put the cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

The city steam roller is now at work on south Jackson street repairing the street between Poplar and Hill streets. The work will be finished by Tuesday afternoon and the council will decide at its regular meeting Tuesday where to house the roller during the winter months.

The Elks will meet in their hall Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock to attend the funeral of Russell Farmer. The lodge will attend the funeral in a body.

HID STOLEN AUTO NEAR FINCASTLE

LAFAYETTE MEN WHO TOOK NEW FORD AUTOMOBILE DROVE IT TO HOME OF MRS. HENRY RYAN, IN NORTH PUTNAM COUNTY—LATER DROVE IT TO DETROIT—CRAWFORDS-VILLE OFFICER RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ARRESTS.

SOLD MACHINE FOR $310

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—John Nichols and Harry Miller, both well known in this city, are being held prisoners at the Tippecanoe county jail, and are charged with stealing an automobile from this city belonging to Ernest Halstead, of 125 Lutz avenue, West Lafayette, on the night of October 16.

The machine which was a new Ford, just purchased a few days before by Mr. Halstead, had been left on Sixth street near the Lincoln club. It was seen there by both Nichols and Miller, and according to a statement made by them they discussed the advisability of stealing it.

The arrest of the pair was brought about by clever work of Vernon Shields, a member of the Crawfordsville police force. Officer Shields received police information from a friend in Crawfordsville that Nichols had driven a new machine to the home of an aunt, Mrs. Henry Ryan, near Fincastle, in Putnam county. The "tip" came from a friend whom Nichols had met in Crawfordsville.

Machine Was Gone.
The officer had received word from the Lafayette police that a new machine belonging to Mr. Halstead had been stolen, and he also learned that Nichols' home was in this city. Connecting the two facts, he came to the conclusion that the machine in the shed at the home of Nichols' aunt belonged to Halstead. He notified Mr. Halstead, and they made a trip to the shed late one night two weeks ago. When they arrived, to their sorrow they found that the machine was gone.

Officer Shields continued on the case and learned more about Nichols. He procured a card written by him to a young lady friend, and learned that he was in Detroit. On Tuesday, he and Chief Ed Hill of the Crawfordsville police force, came to this city and conversed with Superintendent Powell. They learned that Nichols was stopping at the Hermitage hotel in Detroit from a friend of the family here, and also learned that Harry Miller also of this city, but who had worked at the Ford factory in Detroit, was with him. The two officers then went to Detroit, and on Thursday evening placed both young men under arrest.

Number Changed.

According to the officers, both denied at first that they had stolen the machine, but when confronted with the web of evidence that had been woven about them, confessed. According to the officers, they drove the machine to the home of Nichols' aunt and placed it in a shed, where it remained for three days. Nichols did not want his relatives to see him, so Miller went to the house to get it. The men drove the car to Detroit where it had been sold for $310. Each man had approximately $100 when they were arrested.

WHEN A WOMAN WINDS A TOWEL AROUND HER HEAD

"When a woman winds a towel around her head and calls for a bucket of water it means the beginning of a big day," according to Farm and Fireside, "but when a man winds a towel around his head and calls for water it means the end of a big night."

The hunting season will open next Wednesday. On November 10 the open season on quail and rabbits begins. No doubt there will be many hunters in the field on that day. The present mild weather, however, will not be favorable to good hunting. Rain and colder weather will be required before conditions are good for hunting.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. SUSAN N. DARNALL

Mrs. Susan Nelson Darnall, 83 years old, widow of the late James Franklin Darnall, died at her home on east Seminary street Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, following an illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Darnall had been in ill health for more than a year. A sad co-incidence in connection with the death of Mrs. Darnall, was the death of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Grant, of Indianapolis, who was taken suddenly ill when she came here to assist in caring for her mother. The funeral of Mrs. Grant was held Sunday afternoon at the Darnall residence. Just two hours later occurred the death of the mother.

The funeral of Mrs. Darnall will be at the residence Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Henry Ostrum, assisted by Dr. Tillotson and Dr. Salem B. Town. Burial will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Darnall had resided in the home in which she died since Oct. 10, 1865. She was the seventh child of a family of fourteen children, and was the seventh of the fourteen children to be claimed by death. Mrs. Darnall was the first of the children to be born in Putnam county, her birth occurring shortly after her parents had removed to this county from Kentucky. She was born in the old Nelson homestead, near Morton. Mrs. Darnall was a member of the College avenue church.

James Franklin Darnall, the husband, whose death occurred July 29, 1906, was one of the county's most prominent citizens. During the administration of President McKinley, Mr. Darnall was appointed counsel to Mexico, in which position he made a splendid record.

Beside her two sons, James T. Darnall of Oklahoma and H. C. Darnall of this city, she leaves seven brothers and sisters. They are J. H. C. Nelson and Mrs. George Hanna, both of this city; Mrs. Jane Miller, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Henry Miller, of Lawrence, Kas.; Mrs. William Dale, of Boone, Iowa; Newton Nelson, of Christian, Ill., and Pope Nelson, of Los Angeles.

The marriage of Mrs. Grace E. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Catton, who reside just east of this city, and William Fowler, a prominent farmer of Marion township, occurred Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the office of Justice of Peace Frank. The young couple is very well known in this city and in the community in which they reside. The ceremony was performed by Squire Frank. The young couple will make their future home on the farm of Albert Allee, about four miles east of this city.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

(By Willis S. Thompson.)

JASONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 8.—"Wilson for President, 1916" was the tag worn by most of the population of Jasonville and the visitors who came from other parts of the district to take part in the Green county democratic rally Friday. It was a splendid demonstration of the force of the "vote for Wilson, the whole democratic ticket and the full dinner pail" as put by Mayor John McCarty who came over with Alvin Padgett, John H. Spencer and the other boosters from Washington.

There were two thousand present at the afternoon meeting in which Auditor of State Dale J. Crittenger, Congressman John A. M. Adair and Congressman W. A. Cullop were the chief speakers.

When County Chairman Claud E. Gregg called the meeting to order Charles D. Hunt of Sullivan was made permanent chairman and introduced Auditor Crittenger with the request that he discuss state finances. "In our discussion of state finances," said Mr. Crittenger, "we talk by the books and we want it known that every book and account in the office of the auditor and treasurer is open to the inspection of any man, or woman who will come to the state house to see them. When we tell you that the republicans, after holding office for a number of years, left debts and unpaid current bills, long past due, and amounting to more than a million dollars, we are ready to show you the books. When we tell you that the democrats in the five years in which they have had control of the state offices have paid that debt, and that today there is not an unpaid bill on the desk of the auditor and treasurer, and that we are ready to meet any bill that is presented, we are ready to show you the books. It is a condition which our opponents can not answer."

Congressman Adair said, as he has frequently remarked in his speeches, that every candidate and every campaign orator and every democratic and independent newspaper in the state can proudly go out to the people and stand on the record of the state administration as one of the best and strongest the state has ever had, that we have never had a better. That results are what count and he could not imagine why any sane man should wish to return to a lot of debt-making republicans when such an excellent lot of democratic debt payers were already serving. He also asserted that the legislature of 1913 and 1915, under Governor Ralston, had passed more good constructive laws than any two legislatures that ever before met in the state.

Neither could he see any reason why any sane man should wish to displace the administration of Woodrow Wilson; which has made for the greatest prosperity the whole country has ever experienced, and return to the panic-making times of the good old standpatters when Wall street managed the finances of the United States. The democratic party had passed the federal reserve act which makes panic an absolute impossibility. To displace the Woodrow Wilson administration for a return to the republican standpatters would simply be changing from the prosperity makers and panic preventers, who have protected all the people alike, and returning to the panic-makers who made it impossible for the people to get their own money out of the banks while Wall street used that same money to make millions more at usurious interest rates.

It was a splendid audience in size as well as attention and enthusiasm that listened to all the addresses which were made in the open air. Many of the visitors explained that the reason the visiting delegations were not larger was the fact that there were no unemployed and none who had the time to get away from business and work. The audience in the afternoon was largely of the men working in the mines on shifts off duty at the time.

Congressman Cullop spoke both in the afternoon and evening. At the evening meeting, held just off the main street, the audience was much larger than in the afternoon and composed mostly of men who were busy in the mines during the day. Senator John W. Kern, who was the principle speaker, told them of the many good things done by the president and the congress for the benefit of the laboring men, promising things in the national platform of 1908 and 1912—things which no other party would ever promise, and meeting every promise by enacting laws as soon as the power was given. That these laws simply meant an equal show for honest capital and honest labor, which was exactly what the representatives of labor had asked. The speech of Senator Kern was one of intense earnestness that brought enthusiastic response from his hearers.

STOLEN AUTO AT FINCASTLE RECOVERED IN DETROIT

A brief telegram from Detroit, dated Nov. 4, says: "Recovered car; men under arrest."

This brief message is the culmination of a long hunt for a stolen automobile. From the mustiest sort of a tip, the chase for a stolen car wound its way over three or four counties in western Indiana and at last culminated in the city on the lakes in another state.

On the night of October 16 the automobile of Ernest Halstead, Lafayette, was stolen in that city. No trace of the car could be found and it was by mere chance that Mr. Halstead appealed to the local force to take up the matter of locating the machine. Here a tip was secured that a car answering the description of the Halstead machine was laid up in a barn-look near Fincastle in Putnam county. Mr. Halstead and Officer Shields made a night ride to that locality only to find that the car had been moved. While in that neighborhood, they learned that the numbers on the engine and motor had been filed off and a new registry number had been placed on the car. This assured the searchers that all was not right, and with the new numbers as their only clue, the search was renewed.

The chase finally led to Detroit and that they were successful is recorded in the brief message:

The car had been stored at the home of Mr. Ryan at Fincastle. On Sunday following the taking of the car at Lafayette two young fellows stopped at the Ryan home and asked to store the car there, claiming that it was out of commission and that they would have to get some repair parts. The car remained at the Ryan home until Thursday when the young fellows returned and the shift in the numbers was made. Only one of the lads came near the Ryan home, the other held aloof and stayed at the road. The talkative one said his name was Moore. Mrs. Ryan thought she recognized the other as John Nichols whose parents live in Lafayette but who formerly lived in the Whitesville neighborhood. Young Nichols had worked in Ladoga and had relatives in the vicinity of Fincastle.—Crawfordsville Review.

THE WEATHER FOR NOVEMBER

IF HICKS DOPE IS WORTHY OF BELIEF WE MAY BE UP AGAINST WIND, SNOW, RAIN, AND ALL SORTS OF UNPLEASANTNESS IN THE WEATHER LINE.

A THANKSGIVING STORM

Prophet Hicks predicts boreal storms, gales on the great lakes and a near blizzard about Thanksgiving time. The regular storm period, central on October 30, will be in progress as we enter November. Falling barometer, growing cloudiness and storm of wind and rain will be passing the central valleys about the first to the third day. The high temperature with general rain and possibly electrical storms, will reach a culmination on and next to the third. The first reactionary storm period is central on and touching the fourth and fifth days. The first regular storm period is central on the 10th, including the 8th to the 13th. It is perfectly reasonable to anticipate some dangerous atmospheric perturbations.

The danger centers will lie on and about the great lakes. Note the barometric, and other indications of brewing storms to the westward, at beginning of this period—say as early as the 8th, and do not cease your vigilant watchfulness through Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th. This warning applies with special emphasis to the great lakes, and north Atlantic coast regions. If storms and weather should have taken on the form of early winter, under the Mars influence, the crisis of this period will bring severe boreal storms followed by freezing.

The second reactionary storm period is central on the 15th, 16th and 17th. The moon reaches the celestial equator on the 16th, coming northward from its south declination. A sudden and very marked change to warmer with falling barometer, cloudiness, rain, wind and thunder storms will center about the 16th. The second regular storm period is central on the 22nd, involving the 19th to 26th. By the 20th to 21st, well defined storm condition will develop in western sections—the barometer will be falling with warmer south winds. Cloudiness will quickly ensue, and storms of growing extent and intensity will take up their march from west to east. While these things are brewing in the west, warmer fair weather will prevail in central and eastern parts, but falling barometer, cloudiness and storms of autumnal rain and wind will advance eastward, from day to day, traversing the whole country from about Sunday, the 21st, to Thursday, the 26th. But before the storms of rain and falling barometer reach the eastern states, the barometer will be rising in the west, rain will have turned to sleet and snow, and something approximating a November blizzard. The third reactionary storm period is central on the 27th, 28th and 29th. This period is at the culmination of the Mercury disturbance, the moon is at last quarter on the 29th and on the celestial equator on the 30th. The Mercury influence will continue into the opening days of December, and cloudy, threatening weather will, as a natural consequence, be prolonged. On and touching the 30th, temperature will probably make a sudden and decided rise, as the moon passes over the equator on that day. Rains will turn to heavy sleet in many localities as we pass into December.

Distress in the Stomach.

There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after meals. Mrs. Henry Padghan, Victor, N. Y., writes: "For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." Obtainable everywhere.

CENTENNIAL NEWS LETTER.

F. B. Barnes, municipal recreation superintendent of South Bend, has been chosen by Chairman F. A. Miller, as pageant master for St. Joseph County's Centennial celebration. Together with the State's Centennial, South Bend will observe its own semi-centennial.

The Friends, who had established churches in Indiana before it became a state, appointed committees at their yearly meetings held recently at Richmond and Plainfield, to co-operate with the State Commission in observing the Centennial.

Fountain County is planning to gather and place on record data concerning the historical, agricultural and educational phases of the county's life, to make better known the resources and natural attractions of the county, and to create a greater interest in local matters.

Organization has begun in Tippecanoe County under the leadership of Brainard Hooker. A rousing meeting was held at Lafayette the other evening when enthusiastic speeches in favor of Centennial celebration were made by President Stone and Professors Coulter, Christie and Moran of Purdue, and by Senator Reser, Judge Vinton and others.

Chairman J. C. Webb is preparing a small illustrated treatise on the Centennial in Johnson County.

Of the religious bodies of the state, the Jews have taken the initiative in anticipation of the Centennial. A committee composed of Max R. Hyman, Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht and Mrs. Isaac Halpern, is at work gathering material for a history of the Jewish contribution to Indiana history along all lines of progress. The history will be issued in book form and will make a valuable contribution to Centennial literature.

Wabash College has appointed a strong committee to co-operate with local organizations of Crawfordville in preparation for a grand celebration in Montgomery county. A monster pageant is talked of as the crowning feature.

Jay County is planning a four days celebration, a unique feature of which will be the reproduction of a live Indian village. Dr. W. D. Schwartz, chairman of Jay, writes that he is surprised and delighted at the enthusiasm shown.

Chairman C. V. Haworth of Howard County is planning to have the history of each township in the county, including Kokomo and other towns, written during the year and published in the local newspaper.

Women's clubs, sororities, groups of Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts, church societies, school children and business men throughout Indiana are enlisting for the 1915 Red Cross Seal campaign, which, in this state, will open November 10. The Indiana Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis which director the Hooster campaign under a commission granted by the American Red Cross, has sounded the slogan "Ten Seals Per Capita" and an effort will be made to induce Indiana men and women to use the seals on all December mail and express matter. The seals and a great variety of advertising matter are supplied to local societies without charge and ninety per cent of the proceeds remain in Indiana for use in the tuberculosis war.

Is there a purse with sides so flat, whose contents consisting of this and that, could not produce at least a cent and for a Red Cross Seal be spent? Is there a Hoosier with heart so dead, who to himself hath not yet said, "you can bet your neck I will not fail, to use these seals on my December mail? Is there an Indiana woman or a man, who will not say out loud "I can, and will, use Red Cross Seals this year to fight tuberculosis here?" Ten seals for each—the quota's small, let's buy them quick and do not stall.

FEDERAL SERVICE IS NO SINECURE

GOVERNMENT WORKERS AT WASHINGTON CATALOGUED BY STATISTICIAN TO QUIET ENVY.

THE SALARY AVERAGE IS LOW

More Women are Employed in District of Columbia Than in Rest of Country.

Washington.—In the United States are multitudes who imagine that the greatest sinecure one can enjoy in this life is to be an employee in the executive civil service of the United States government in Washington. But 25,351 persons have learned from personal experience that such is not the case.

When these individuals who are not in the service contemplate the government clerk being granted 30 days' annual leave, and that if the clerk is sick he is allowed, by a merciful power, 30 days more in which to recuperate; when these facts possess them they grow envious and wonder why the fates have not dropped them into one of these many easy berths.

And when these dissatisfied ones meditate upon the hours the government employee is supposed to work—from 9 o'clock to 4:30 o'clock with one-half hour for lunch—it is too much for them, and they determine that come what may they will take the civil service examination for a position at Washington. They also think of the government employee at Washington who is supposed to stop his work at 1 o'clock on Saturdays during July, August and September.

When these position-seekers at Washington pass the examination and finally secure the coveted appointment they soon discover a number of pertinent facts. They find that of the men in the District of Columbia employed by the government, 41.2 per cent are paid at a rate of less than $1,200 a year. In the case of women the percentage of those paid at a rate less than $1,200 a year is 73.1 per cent. The newly appointed employee sees that 48.6 per cent of the women, as contrasted with 16.3 per cent of the men, are in the class paid at a rate of less than $720 a year. In the District of Columbia the lowest average rate is $620, paid to employees under 20 years of age.

Those permitted to choose the department or bureau in which they may desire to locate themselves, may be guided by these averages. First comes the department of justice with an average salary of $1,588; the war and navy building average is $695 lowest. The department of state averages $1,310; Department of the Interior, $1,257; Post Office Department, $1,228 and Bureau of Engraving and Printing $719.

Women are more numerous among the employees here than elsewhere. In Washington 73.58 are women, or almost 3 in 10, while the employees elsewhere only 64.63 are women, or 1 to 2.5, although the total number of employees in the district is less than one-sixth of the total number outside.

Of the employees in the government service at Washington 27.85, or 11 per cent are negroes and 18.52 persons at least 65 years of age, which means that practically one Government employee in 14 is at least that age.

The new arrival will learn that 20.3 per cent of his associates have been employed by the Government less than 5 years; 25.2 per cent from 5 to 9 years; 24 per cent from 10 to 19 years; 12.6 per cent from 20 to 29 years; 5 per cent from 30 to 39 years, and that 2.2 per cent have been serving 40 years and over.

By the time our civil service appointee has gained this knowledge he has learned that the work in Washington is not just what he imagined it to be, but if he has a job the chances are he will keep it, but wish he was back home.

LAZY HUSBAND PAROLED

Indiana Man Who Put Fishing Before Labor Accepts Terms to Escape Jail.

Aurora, Ind.—Albert C. Cochran, aged 39, was arrested under the "lazy husband" act, on a warrant sworn out by his wife, and fined $25 and costs by Harry J. Wade, Justice of the peace. It was alleged by Mrs. Cochran that Cochran would not work and compelled her to do the farm work while he spent his time hunting and fishing.

When Cochran was about to be sent to jail in default of his fine, Mrs. Cochran said she would pay the fine if her husband would go to work and assist her with their crops of tobacco and corn. After some argument, Cochran agreed, was paroled and placed in the custody of his wife. He is to work five and a half days each week, getting Saturday afternoon off, and is to attend Sunday school each Sunday and is to report each week to Magistrate Wade.

AMUSEMENTS.

English Opera House, Indianapolis. The attraction at English's Opera House, Indianapolis, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 15, 16, 17 and 18, with matinee Wednesday, will be one of the greatest comedy successes of the last season in New York City—"Twin Beds."

This immensely funny piece during the entire metropolitan season, drew audiences of capacity size and convulsed the seasoned theatergoers of the city. In "Twin Beds" there is said to be a laugh in every speech, and situations of such genuine originality as few modern comedies contain. No person who loves laughter, and there are few such people alive, can afford to see this comedy triumph.

The company which will present the play at English's is an excellent one as could be assembled by the producers. The story of the play tells how a young man who has been out one night with some lively companions, returns home to the apartment house where he lives, and by some error, gets into the wrong flat. Then complications of the most unexpected sort, and of the most mirth-provoking quality, begin to develop.

After leading the various characters of the play through a veritable maze of side splitting complications, the playwright untangles all the snarls in the last act. No one should fail to see this delightful farce, as it will be found to be one of the genuine treats of the early theatrical season.

Matinee Saturday.

One of the most welcome announcements made by the management of English's Opera House for this season, is the appearance on Friday and Saturday nights, and Saturday matinee, November 19th and 20th, of America's best known and most dearly loved actress, Maud Adams.

It is necessary only to make the bare announcement, in every city which she visits of Maud Adams' coming to assure capacity houses at each and every performance.

Two of Miss Adams' most beautiful and popular plays will be presented during her appearance at Indianapolis. On Friday and Saturday nights she will be seen in "The Little Minister" and "What Every Woman Knows." For the Saturday matinee also "The Little Minister" is the play selected.

This will be by far the most interesting dramatic engagement of the season thus far at English's Opera House.

How to Prevent Croup. It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs. H. M. Johns, Elida, Ohio, relates her experience as follows: "My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other cough medicine because children take it willingly, and it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.

After the death of his first wife, he was again united in marriage March 30, 1868, to Sidney Sutherland, of Clinton Falls, Ind., and to this union were born three children, Flora Belle, wife of Robert Garrett of Fillmore; Alonzo E. Cook, of Greencastle, and Clifford C. Cook, who died March 30, 1909. He has living, one brother, James Cook, of Portland Mills, Ind., and three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Reynolds, of Louisiana; Mrs. Frances O'Connell, of Oswego, Kansas, and Mrs. Amanda Fee, of Stafford, Kansas, who was at his bedside at death. Two sisters and four brothers have preceded him to the grave.

He enlisted in 1863 as first sergeant of Co. I, 115 Regiment, then re-enlisted in the 20th Indiana Light Artillery and served his country to the end of the war.

At the age of twenty-one, he joined the Masonic Order of Portland Mills, and since that time had been a faithful member of the order, also a member of the Eastern Star of Fillmore.

He was of a high moral character, a good financier, an advocate of anything progressive in his community, a faithful attendant at church services, and in February, 1912, he united with the Christian church at Fillmore and continued a faithful member until death.

The last ten years he had lived with his daughter, Flora, who has in his recent illness assumed the care of him, and with the aid of her family and friends, did everything that could be done for him. His place in the home will be vacant, and his kind words and pleasing manner will be missed by all his friends.

He leaves to mourn his death, three children, eleven grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and a host of friends and relatives.

"Oh life; Thou and I have been long together,
Through pleasant and through cloudy weather,
'Tis hard to part when friends are dear,

Perhaps 'twill cost a smile, a tear,
Then steal away; give little warning,
But in some brighter clime bid me good-morning."

OBITUARY.

It has pleased our heavenly father to take from her family and friends, Amanda Gobel McNary.

We, the undersigned committee deem the following resolutions right and proper.

Resolved; That in the death of Sister McNary, the Star has lost a faithful member and her chapter a true and sympathetic friend.

Resolved; That our chapter extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband, children and family.

You think them "out of reach" your dead. Nay by my own dead I deny "your out of reach. Be comforted, 'tis not so far to die.

O by their dear remembered smiles And out held hands and welcoming speech

They wait for us, thousand of miles This side of "out of reach."

Resolved; That a copy of these resolutions be sent the family, a copy be sent the daily papers and a copy spread upon the minutes of this Chapter.

BUTLER LOOSES
TO METHODISTS

DePAUW DEFEATS CHRISTIANS BY SCORE OF 39 TO 0 IN GAME PLAYED ON IRWIN FIELD, IRVINGTON, SATURDAY AFTERNOON—ROWAN IS RULED OUT OF GAME IN FINAL PERIOD.

LONG RUN BY "HANK"

With three of its regulars ineligible to play because of their being behind in their school work, the DePauw football team romped away from Butler, in the annual clash between the two teams, played in Irvington, Saturday by a score of 39 to 0. The Butler team, which generally has proved a "jinx" for the Old Gold players, was outclassed in every department of the game and the Methodists had little trouble in running up a large score on the Butlers.

Butler, spurred on by the hopes that the luck which generally has characterized their clashes with DePauw, would return to them, fought desperately and gamely throughout the entire contest, but were unable to find any opportunity to score on the sturdy Methodists.

The play of a star was dimmed in the final period of the game. Capt. "Hank" Rowan, of DePauw, who was a tower of strength for the visitors and who is a great player, proved that there is one great lesson he has yet to learn on the gridiron, namely, to hold his head. Daniels, a Butler halfback, had just completed a number of beautiful diving tackles, and following one of these Rowan gave the smaller man a stiff jolt with his fist. He was promptly ruled out of the game for slugging and his team lost half the distance to the goal as a penalty.

Three DePauw Regulars Out.

DePauw was weakened to an extent by having three of its regular linemen out of the game. When the Methodists shot out on the field the opening quarter, they met as determined a team as ever wore the blue and white. In the Butler lineup were a number of freshmen who lack experience, but who appear to have the nerve and determination, which speaks well for future moleskin battles. The superior weight did not tell so strongly on the Irvingtonites until they were battered down. The result was that the score at the end of the first quarter was only 6 to 0. In the second and third periods DePauw made most of its markers.

The Methodists started the game off by kicking to Butler and following a series of punts Butler fumbled the ball close to its own goal line. The ball was booted to the center of the field and the visitors punched the pigskin to within striking distance. Butler held well and broke through on Cushman, who was selected to make the touchdown attempt. The latter fumbled and the ball bounced into the arms of Rowan, who went over for the tally. He failed to kick goal and there was no more scoring in the period, although Butler had its best chance of the game to register in the same session.

Pass Gains Twenty Yards.

Following the first touchdown DePauw kicked off to Butler and the Butlers punched the line to the center of the field. A forward pass to C. Good netted twenty yards, but a forward pass which went back of DePauw's goal line was fumbled and the golden opportunity lost. The quarter ended shortly after.

In the second quarter both teams attempted a number of forward passes and both were guilty of fumbling. On one of these fumbles DePauw gained the ball in the center of the field and line-smashing tactics took the ball to Butler's two-yard line, where Pence went over for a touchdown. The second touchdown of the period was earned principally by line plunges and the half ended, 20 to 0.

Long Run by Rowan.

DePauw added two more touchdowns in the third period of play, the first coming after the ball had been carried into the danger zone by Rowan, who circled end for a fifty-yard run. An intercepted forward pass, followed by a series of line plunges, gave the Methodists their second touchdown of the period.

Butler made its final stand in the last quarter, when DePauw was held to a lone touchdown. A few open formations after the ball was secured in the center of the field enabled the visitors to make their last touchdown. Lineup and summary:

WHEN A WOMAN REACHES FIFTY

Being not so young as you were is not all loss. If maturity of years is an ailment, then youth is another. To be fifty years old is to have made a fairly complete recovery from the ailment of youth, and that is no small achievement. It is not everybody that does it. The person who remembers statistics will tell you what portion of us struggling people succumb to youth and its mischances and hardships. It is a large portion. The rapids of the river of life, the rockiest places, the swiftest descents, are apt to be upstream. To have passed them all and got down into calmer levels of the fifties is a feat that justifies a good many comfortable thoughts.

Yes, it is, especially if one is not too much stove in by arduous preliminaries and has been able perhaps to bring down some cargo with him. It is, or used to be, a fashion to sigh for lost youth, and there are people who do sincerely mourn for it. Women, especially, who have had full measure of youthful beauty, part with it, usually, with sighs of reluctance. Gray hair seldom pleases them; they don't like wigs; the "ravages of time" are real and sad to them, and they repair them with diligence and what skill they may command. Beauty in a woman is power. To be noticed and admired and courted for it is, no doubt, a very considerable stimulation and entertainment, not to be indifferently parted with, and not in all cases offset by gains in authority, or the tribute of deference that is paid to character, or the tribute of love that comes to unselfishness and gentleness and power of sympathy. What a woman loses by the years in freshness of physical beauty she ought to more than make up in wisdom that comes from living, in the fuller understanding of people and of life, in all the kinds of knowledge, in self-possession and increased skill in the arrangement and discharge in the parts of speech. So it does happen with able women who have had a chance to develop and who have lived good lives. They are vastly more interesting at fifty than at twenty-two, and many of them are lovelier to look at. But beauty comes ready-made, and these mature attractions have to be earned, not all women earn them.—Harper's Magazine.

THE WRIST WATCH

There has been for some time past a strange impression in the minds of some persons who believe themselves to be the public that the wearing of a wrist watch by a man is a sign of effeminacy. By just what process of reasoning these wisecracks have reached this conclusion is not wholly clear, for as a matter of fact a great many of our most virile and busily active male humans find the wrist watch an article of very great convenience.

Military men in the active pursuit of strenuous duties have found it of invaluable aid. Policemen to whom a certain exactitude as to time is an essential of the proper performance of their functions, have found wrist watches more than helpful to them. A great many orators—pulpit, stump and soapbox—would run far less risk of boring their audiences into a state of coma if they would only avail themselves of its advantages and intimations. Locomotive engineers, pullman porters, night watchmen and chauffeurs would probably testify that the world holds no more convenient kind of timepiece. Why should it always be necessary for a busy man desiring to know the time to haul several lengths of gold, zinc or brass chain out of his abdominal depths, in order to bring his watch into view, on penalty of being considered effeminate? Why anybody on earth or off it should be compelled to unbutton an overcoat or a raincoat and go feeling around in the depths of a waistcoat pocket, like a small boy diving into a grab bag at a church fair, in order to drag his timepiece into the clear light of day, or subject his masculinity to everlasting reproach, is utterly beyond his honor.—From Judge.

It is easier for some men to stand upright than it is for them to act that way.

A man will write out a hundred "don'ts" and not mention a single "do."

A black eye indicates that the owner looked for trouble and found it.

HARD LUCK JINK
CRUEL TO YORK

INJURED SO OFTEN HE WEDS TO HAVE NURSE ON HAND.

Unluckiest Person in Northern Oklahoma—Accidents and Illness Alternate to Down Him.

Goltry, Okla.—Arthur York a young man living five miles north of this place is considered to be the most unlucky man in northern Oklahoma in the matter of painful and dangerous accidents.

His troubles began three years ago while driving a bunch of horses in from the pasture. In making a quick dash around the leaders, his mount slipped and fell upon him, dislocating his ankle and breaking three ribs. He had hardly recovered from these injuries when he was charged by an infuriated bull and would doubtless have been killed had not the faithful farm dog rushed into the fray and grabbed the bull by the lower lip. While nursing the wounds of this encounter he took down with smallpox and had a very close call.

Last harvest he was thrown from a wagon by a runaway team and sustained a broken leg and dislocated collar bone. Thinking perhaps that it would be better to marry a nurse than to be at the continuous expense of hiring one, he married one of the belles of the community and had settled down to wedded bliss when he was again forced to his bed with a dangerous case of pneumonia fever. While convalescing in this illness, he stepped out on the back porch for a bucket of water, when he slipped on a large glare of ice and broke an arm.

Several months passed and thinking that his Nemesis had forsaken him, he gained confidence enough to go about his usual and varied work on the farm. He had reckoned without the Fates, for the first job he undertook cost him one of his fingers on the right hand. He was attempting to fix a windmill, when a sudden gust of wind set the mill in motion, catching his finger in the cogs and mashing it to a pulp. Only a remarkable presence of mind, in grabbing the upright, saved him from falling to the ground from a height of fifty feet.

Mr. York is strong minded and intellectually above the average, so that these accidents cannot be charged to any mental defects. He takes his troubles in a very philosophical manner and his natural cheerful disposition lightens his burdens. He says he has a few unbroken bones left, nine fingers and a good prospect for a wheat crop with which to pay doctor bills.

UNIQUE WAY TO SAVE MONEY.

Man Deposits Cash, Then Loses Memory and Lets Interest Grow.

Live Oaks, Cal.—Martin Burgess, who came to California in 1855, mined successfully, returned east in 1879 and is now here visiting friends, tells a strange story.

In 1879 he deposited in a San Francisco savings bank $4,500 and started east to visit relatives. In St. Louis he was stricken with paralysis. He lost all memory of his past life, in two years' time regaining his health, but could not recall little of his California career.

Last February he paid a visit to the hospital in which he was treated and was handed a package of papers he had left in 1879. In the package was a certificate of deposit for money in the San Francisco bank.

Burgess established his identity upon presenting himself at the bank a month ago and received his deposit with compound interest, the total amount handed over being over $55,000. Burgess cleaned up a fortune in six months placer mining in El Dorado county in 1856, but lost most of it speculating. Later he made and lost two fortunes.

TURTLE SNAPS ON GIRL'S TOE.

Then a Wild Scream Disturbed the Silent Stream.

Gratz, Pa.—Miss Mae Leser, an 18 year old girl, knows how it feels to haul a large snapping turtle out of the water with her large toe. With some other girls, Miss Leser was September Morning in the silent stream that gambols through the outskirts of Gratz. She gave a scream when the snapper seized her toe, and the girls who were with her say she went down into the water before they were able to get to the rescue.

When the turtle was hauled out on dry land, and had sized up the situation, he let loose and hastened back to the water. Miss Leser's toe is badly bruised.

PROBABLY A CHESTNUT HORSE.

Squirrel Repeatedly Climbs Over Animal Looking for Something.

Winsted, Conn.—Junius M. White of Litchfield avenue, driver for A. B. Johnson, saw an unusual sight in Winchester. His horse was joggling along when a red squirrel ran up one of the animal's forelegs.

The horse shook the squirrel off, but only for a moment, for it darted back up one of the hind legs. Again tossed to the ground, the squirrel dashed away.

FORMER DePAUW STUDENT

At the recent Indiana Teachers' Association held at Indianapolis, Dr. Thorndike of Columbia University, while making an address, passed out the "Trabue Completion Tests" and spoke of them as the best test of mental and language ability that had yet been invented.

Dr. Trabue, the author of these tests, attended DePauw university in 1907-08. He graduated from Northwestern University with the Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1911, received his Master of Arts degree in 1914 and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1915. The two latter were conferred by Columbia University.

He is a contributor to educational magazines, also scientific magazines, and is the author of several books on education and science. At present he is co-author with Dr. G. D. Strayer, head of the Department of Educational Administration of Columbia, of a book on Educational Measurements, which is soon to be published.

Dr. Trabue is a member of the Phi Delta Kappa, and the Taus fraternities at Columbia. He is now instructor and director in field work in Educational Administration in Columbia University.

Mrs. Trabue who graduated from DePauw in 1911, was Emma Small of Greencastle before her marriage.

Undoubtedly the best thing of the kind that has ever come to Greencastle

David Bispham Company.

David Bispham supported by a strong company will appear in Meharry Hall, Tuesday evening, November 16. This is probably the biggest thing that Greencastle has ever had.

Mr. Bispham is one of the most versatile men America ever produced. He has had a remarkable career as a grand opera singer, an actor, a lecturer, a writer and as a vaudeville artist. While he was singing in vaudeville he was given the honorary degree of LL.D. by Haverford College, his alma mater. He has probably done more for music in America than any other individual. He is a great man.

Greencastle is exceedingly fortunate in securing such an attraction. It was only through the friendship of his manager, R. E. Johnston, for Dean McCutchan that it was brought about.

In the current issue of Harper's Weekly there is an article dealing with the versatility of Mr. Bispham.

This company appeared in the Harris Theatre in New York City on Oct. 17, 21, 22, 24, 25 and 26, and returns there for another engagement at the close of its present transcontinental tour.

Bispham is so well known that it ought not to be necessary to do more than make the statement that he would appear in Greencastle to completely sell out the house. He is supported by Idelle Patterson, lyric soprano; Marie Narelle, Mezzo soprano; Henri Barron, tenor; Graham Harris, violinist, and accompanist.

BRAZIL DEFEATS G. H. S. IN GAME HERE SATURDAY

The Greencastle high school football team was defeated Saturday afternoon on McKean field by a score of 31 to 0, by the Brazil high school football team. The score does not tell the game, which was stubbornly fought from start to finish. The Greencastle team was handicapped by the loss of two of its best players but played a good game throughout.

This game was the first football game between Greencastle and Brazil high schools for several years. The visitors brought a crowd of rooters from Brazil and the cheering by the spectators from both schools was long and enthusiastic.

Brazil made two touchdowns in the first half; one after Clark had broken through the line for a twenty-five yard run to the goal, and another near the end of the first half, when Brazil recovered a fumble and carried it over the line by good playing. Greencastle made some good forward passes but lost a good chance to score on one in the last part of the first quarter. The Greencastle team seemed to weaken in the last half with the result that the Brazil team scored three times. The lineup was as follows:

Morgan Hirt

McAuliff L. G. Whelan
Wright R. G. Call
Jones L. T. Hootman

John A. McCabe, Everett Lloyd and "Buck" Burk, three north Putnam boys, who left some time ago for a month's trip to California, where they visited the expositions, and other points of interest, report they are having a great time. They expect to be home the latter part of this week.

Members of the Woman's Club of Rockville listened to the second number of their lecture course at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McFaddin Wednesday evening. Dr. Tillotson of Greencastle gave a talk on Kipling, interspersed with recitations from the poems, the selection of which was as pleasing as was his rendition of them. The members of the club were accompanied by their husbands, and there were also a few other guests, all of whom greatly enjoyed the evening. —Rockville Exchange.

EXACTING.

First Summer Girl—Oh! I broke off the engagement! He was so unreasonable!
Second Summer Girl—Indeed!
First Summer Girl—Oh, yes! Why, he objected on my going to a moonlight drive with another man!

He is not skilled in gentle art
To please his lady fair;
He does not strive to win her heart
With flowers sweet and rare.

No sonnets ripple from his pen;
No moonlight serenade
Awakes from dreams—or other men,
The shy—and sleepy—maid.

No frenzied vows he'll register,
Nor is his love revealed
By derring-do for sake of her
On any jousting field.

When he a-wooling goes, instead
Of stunts like that, he'll say:
"Let's double up, kid—on the dead,
I got a raise today!"

UP TO DATE.

Assistant—Great Scott! This next issue of ours is going to be simply rank. It'll never sell a copy.

Editor—Brace up! There's one thing left to do: Summon the advertising manager and we'll take up a scheme to boom the thing as some kind of a "special number."

ANOTHER USE.

Smith—I didn't know you owned a motor-car; why these auto gorgies?
Smyth—My wife has hat-pins.

TO RESTORE CABIN

Frontier Home of Simon Kenton at Covington May Be Placed in Park
Covington, Ky.—Patriotic orders here are interested in the restoration of the cabin of Simon Kenton, one of Kentucky's most celebrated pioneers. The cabin which is in Ninth street, is a rambling shack that seems entirely out of place among the excellent buildings which are its neighbors, and proponents of the "city beautiful plan" are for removing the cabin, without reference to its historical associations. Daughters of the American Revolution are engineering a movement whereby the cabin will be removed to one of the parts of the city and restored to its original picturesque ruggedness.

The cabin was built by the famous pioneer and Indian fighter in 1872, and has been occupied until 10 years ago. It is about 29 by 30 feet in dimensions, and has the half story, or loft, to which in early days those who slept above climbed by means of a short ladder.

The logs of the cabin are oak and cedar and have withstood the ravages of time remarkably well. The building has been added to by its various tenants until it now represents the handiwork of half a dozen carpenters, but the plan is to restore the building to its original lines when it is removed to the park.

Kenton was born in Virginia. He left his home there at the age of 16, because he thought he had killed a rival for the hand of a young woman. He crossed the Alleghenies and roamed for a time changing his name to "Simon Butler." He heard of the wonderful "Cain Land" called by the Indians "Kaintuckee," and decided to visit it. He met and became a friend of Daniel Boone, and once rescued Boone from the Indians.

Kenton in later years was very poor until the State of Kentucky granted him a pension.

LIVED ON $16.50 A YEAR

Indiana Man Built a Hut of Mud and Sticks as a Home in Arkansas.

Hope, Ark.—When John Q. Cushman, 63, a hermit who for six years had lived in a mud hut, five miles north of Hope, failed to go to a neighbor's spring for water, the neighbor investigated and found him lying near the hut. He never regained consciousness and died late in the afternoon.

Cushman came here from Indiana. He bought a small piece of land in the woods and with sticks and mud built a hut eight feet square. It has no window and no floor. A scaffold in one corner covered with leaves, was his bed, and a home made stool and a small cook stove was his only other equipment. He prepared and ate his food from the skillet. He ate only a mush made of beans and corn meal mixed with lard.

Cushman once told a neighbor his expenses for food and clothes were limited to $16.50 a year. He had $2000 in a local bank and is said to have more money in Indiana banks.

ALLIGATORS HATCHED BY HEN Mother Soon Worried to Death by Her Unnatural Brood.

Tarboro, N. C.—What might sound a fish story or a fairy yarn comes from Beaufort County. C. J. Overton decided on an experiment, so he placed some alligator eggs, which he had discovered while hunting along South Creek, under a hen. It was Mr. Overton's idea to see if the hen would hatch the "gator eggs."

He patiently waited and one morning a few days ago, while he was in the vicinity of the setting hen, he heard her cackling vociferously. He investigated and found three young "gators" tenaciously clinging to their foster mother. The hen was gyrating, while her peculiar offspring were sticking to her like grim death.

HATCHING OSTRICH EGGS

Spokane, Wash.—According to Supt. of Parks John W. Duncan, the male ostrich in Manito Park Zoo is sharing with his mate the labor of hatching seven ostrich eggs, on which the hen ostrich began to sit a few days ago.

The male ostrich sits on the eggs in the daytime and the hen ostrich takes up the work at night. Besides her duties in mothering the eggs for one shift in every twenty four hours, the hen ostrich still adds to the size of the sitting by laying another egg occasionally. The keepers at the zoo built the nest under a shed to give the ostriches protection from the weather. The hen ostrich, however, disliked the arrangement and with the assistance of her mate, rolled the eggs outside into the sun, where the hatching is now being conducted. The hatching process continues forty-two days. Six eggs from the same hen laid earlier, are being incubated in the city laboratory in an electrical incubator.

Mrs. Joseph Cummins of Barnardston, Mass., has a thoughtful hen which has laid an egg with a "C," which is taken to stand for Cummins, plainly marked on one end.

Conrad Duboski, a 21 year old Russian giant, who is working on the farm of J. Polokof in Lebanon, Conn., is 7 feet 2 inches tall.
